An Iraqi Humanitarian Aid Worker's Story

We are privileged to be able to host an evening with an Iraqi humanitarian aid worker and speaker who is currently touring the UK.

She is the co-founder of a humanitarian relief organisation made up of a group of Iraqis and Americans who work primarily with children and women currently at risk in Iraq, including the besieged city of Falluja.

This is a unique opportunity to hear the often untold stories that make up the current situation in Iraq.

There is no charge, but donations for her relief work are welcome.

Please call or e-mail if you wish to attend or have any further questions.
